AWARD GIVEN IN THE JANAVITZ CASE

By long distance from Greensburg at 2 o'clock this afternoon it was learned that the case against the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad company which was brought in behalf of her son, Morris, by Mrs. Max Janavitz had been settled by compromise. The case was called at 11 o'clock and after a few minutes of parleying an adjournment was taken and the railroad company offered to compromise the case by giving the plaintiff $3,000 and to pay the costs of the proceedings. The offer was accepted and the case dismissed.

This will no doubt prove welcome news to the many friends of the Janavitz family in this place. It is said that an offer to compromise was made before by the company but was refused.

Gus Panos of the Athemian Products company was a business visitor in Pittsburgh for the past two days in the interest of his agencies which are being established in this locality.

MONESSEN MAN DEAD YET MAY BE ALIVE

In the Orphans' Court Saturday morning, before Judge Charles D. Copeland, the somewhat unusual proceeding of declaring a man dead without direct proof of his decease being produced was enacted.

George Dansak, a resident of Monessen, was admitted to the Allegheny County Hospital for the Insane at Woodville, August 30, 1902. On September 6, of the same year, he escaped from the institution, and no knowledge or information has been received by his relatives or friends as to his whereabouts. Believing him to be dead, John Danask, a brother, made application to Register of Wills David A. Miller for letters of administration on his estate, so that his heirs-at-law may receive a sum of money due the estate of the supposed decedent from the First Catholic Union Society of Monessen

The petition for letters of administration was certified into the Orphans' Court, and on December 18, last, legal presumption of death was established, and the required notice was given all persons interested to produce satisfaction evidence of the continuance in life of John Dansak. Saturday was set as the return day for the notice, and no evidence, as required, having been given to the Court, Dansak was legally declared dead and the Court directed that letters of administration issue on his estate.

OLYMPIC HAS THE REAL LADY MINSTREL

Stewart and Raymond's Lady Minstrels, at the Olympic are one of the biggest hits of the season and these clever performers with their brass band, vaudeville acts and big minstrel part will be welcome by the theatre loving public should they ever return again. Yesterday noon and evening and this noon a concert was given in front of the theatre and drew immense crowds. The minstrel part of the show was all that could be desired; catchy music, witty jokes, funny comedians, clever dancers and the beautiful voices of the soloists all combined round out a first class performance. The vaudeville acts in connection included some of the best talent of the company and the acts were loudly applauded by last night's large audiences. The same show will be given this evening. American Press Dispatches will be shown along with two reels of interesting photoplays.

EFFORT TO BE MADE TO RETAIN THE IMPROVEMENT APPROPRIATION FOR THE YOUGH

There are many interested in the proposition of slacking or damming the Youghiogheny river, and even in Monessen there are large numbers of people who at one time lived in that section of Westmoreland county and still have a love for the old Yough and an ever growing desire to see it improved and made navigable. So it was with much surprise and disappointment the other day when the word was sent broadcast that the committee at Washington, D. C., had eliminated from the bill as it had come from the House the $75,000 which had been allowed for that stream.

But there seems a ray of light yet as Representative A. J. Barchfield of Pittsburgh, who was responsible for the authorization, states that he will appeal to the conference committee to restore the appropriation. Col. Henry C. Newcomer, army engineer at Pittsburgh, has estimated the cost of improving the Youghiogheny at about $1,050,000. In the Sixty-first Congress Representative John Dalzell of Pittsburgh secured an appropriation of $'00,600 to begin the work of slack water. Practically all of this sum is available, and with the $75,000 allowed by the House, it was the purpose to begin construction of lock No. 1 at McKeesport, which would have made the river navigable 10 miles above the city. The next Congress was depended upon to authorize the necessary appropriation to complete the work.

While the damming of the Yough would be advantageous in many ways there could not as much benefit prevert therefrom by any manner of means as has in the past from the Monongahela, as this river was slacked long before the advent of railroads and for many years was the only means of transportation or travel, succeeding the old stage coach.

With the Yough it would be the reverse. The improvement would follow the steam car, and while small boats could be floated, shallow craft used for coal and freight shipments and pleasure yachts used, it's value as a navigable stream could not reach the proportions of our own Monongahela. However, the natural ruggedness and beauty of the Yough valley would place it at once among the most picturesque of navigable stream in Pennsylvania. Hence the general opinion is that the end would justify the means.

CRITICISM IS UNJUST TO SOME DEGREE

There is some criticism being directed at those in charge of the police force for permitting officers to go outside the borough limits to assist in making arrests. It must be remembered that adjacent to Monessen there are several villages or settlements that should be within the corporate limits. In these settlements institutions spring up which operate in strict violation of the law and prostitutes settle there with the hope of escaping the law. When it becomes necessary to make a raid the constable generally calls for help from the local officers and in nearly every case they have responded which is just and right in-as-much as institutions of prostitution thrive off the town.

There are too many street walkers in Monessen to promote the best moral conditions. Some lodge here, others flock to town from outside sections, and the constables who are making it their business to go after this element deserve some assistance from the town authorities and there shoud be no hesitancy in granting it for brief periods when a raid is in progress, the results of which will bear fruit to the town.

EXCITING ACCIDENT TO A BOAT PARTY

Saturday afternoon while out boating on the river in a gasoline launch owned by Harry Irwin of this place, Adam Horn, Clement Gribben, Jack Kennedy and the owner of the boat met with an accident that for a time threatened them with loss of life. The party of young men had gone out on a short pleasure trip for the afternoon and had reached the middle of the stream when one of the gasoline tubes became loosened allowing the liquid to escape and causing an explosion which later resulted in a fire.

Knowing the extreme danger they were in in mid stream the boys paddled near the shore where the boat was sunk to avoid its being burned, the boys jumping out and wading the remainder of the way. Clem Gribben was badly burned about the arms and will be forced to keep his arm in bandages for some time. The other members were not injured although they were pretty well shaken up over their narrow escape. The boat, it is expected, will be raised and overhauled as the fire which ignited did not do much damage.

What of the Vacant Lot ?

Many towns have adopted a systematic course of grading vacant lots. Some do it through the schools while others go after the work through the efforts of women's clubs. However, if such a movement spreads it cannot be other than productive of much good. One of the worst menaces to any town is the vacant lot, where refuse of all kind is deposited to make conditions unsightly and detract from public health. To remove rubbish and place there growing vegetation is to keep pace with the cry for higher civic ideas.

There is a universal cry against high prices which is blamed for much of the unrest in the country. People claim times are not like they used to be; it costs so much for everything, but they don't stop to figure how much mother used to save by taking two or three of the boys or girls, as the case may be, and going to the garden patch in the evening and spending an hour or two in labor for the production of something for the table. This has been done away with. The girls and boys now go down street in the evenings and the garden patch grows up in weeds. The grocery wagon today brings to the door of the home what mother and children used to labor for, and yet some of us can't understand why every thing is so costly or why it takes all father makes to keep down expenses. The improvement of the town lot would go along way to help keep down expenses. It would also go a long way to teach the children the thrift which comes from toil. It would also help make the town beautiful and add charm where there lurks filth and debris. In speaking along this line the Greensburg Tribune offers some good suggestions when it says:

"The vacant lot gardening plan is now being considered by some cities. Those who are back of the project claim that there are hundreds of vacant lots in the cities which have been idle for years and are eyesores which produce nothing but a crop of weeds.

"Since produce is enormously high in price, an effort is now being made to utilize all vacant lots for gardens and potato patches. It is a good plan to make two blades of grass grow where one formerly grew but it is a better consideration to make potatoes and cabbage grow where rank weeds once grew. The elimination of weed nests will aid in solving the living problem for many.

"Let the civic bands and charitable organizations secure a list of all the vacant lots in our towns and cities that are not used for any purpose and then take steps to have them converted into gardens for the benefit of those who have spare hours each day for recreation work that would be profitable in the end.

"Of course it will require some effort to induce property owners to permit their vacant lots to be farmed. They seem to dislike to have the rank weeds cut and burned. But the garden idea would bring aid to the needy. It would be producing something in the food line. It would be beautifying the lot instead of destroying it. A good garden is always admired."

The Bulkley bill, authorizing the minting of three cent pieces has been reported by the House Committee on Banking and Currency. Representative Bulkley, author of the bill hails from Cleveland where a 3 cent carfare is imposed by city ordinance hence the leading demand for coins of that denomination. The bill leaves it discretionary with the Director of the Mint whether the proposed new coin shall be perforated, like China coins, or escalloped on the edges, like beer checks used at some public resorts. The bill proposes to withdraw the copper penny and to substitute a penny made of nickel. It is represented that the copper penny collects germs and dirt. Our main trouble is, we can't get enough of them, or get to keep them long enough to get dirty or germy.

To the best of our knowledge the action taken at the State Convention at Harrisburg last week furnished the first instance where a Republican Convention assembled and adjourned with out endorsing the existing party administration. It may have been an oversight during the rush, flurry and hurry, but it surely does look strange.

If as strenuous efforts were made to discover the cause of sickness and disease, and try to keep well, as are made to effect a cure, after we do get sick, how much less of sickness and disease we would have.

Those little motor cycles are very handy things to have about, when you want to go somewhere alone, but the chug, chug, is a sort of an abomination. It is something like the squeal of a pig.

The copper cent seems about to be blacklisted. We should like to know if swallowing those made of nickel will damage small babies any more than the present sort. If not, they're alright.

A Georgia man got a gallon of whisky at a drug store for "his wife who was sick." When the wife got home it was the man who need a doctor—after she was through with him.

Outside of the cost of meats, eggs, butter, vegetables, bread and cereals, etc., the rest is alright.

Fay Brown's Decision

By Rosalie G. Mendel

"Don't let's talk about it any more, John," pleaded Fay Brown. "It's just like going around in a circle without reaching any conclusion."

"I like you tremendously. I am even fond of you; but I don't know and never can love you in the way I must love the man I marry. Consider this final, John—there's no more to be said on the subject."

"It's easy enough to say 'consider this final.' I'll do no such thing; I'll continue asking until you accept from sheer weariness of listening to my proposals. May be you love me and don't know it yourself—such things have happened before."

After a short silence, John said: 'Tell me, is there someone else?"

"No; how could there be when you monopolize about eight of my evenings a week?"

"Well, I'm glad to know I have a clean field," said John.

"A lot of good it will do you," laughed Fay.

"Let's be serious, dear heart," said John. "In a month I return to Panama to be gone for three years. When I left there to come home for my vacation two months ago, I hoped and prayed that you would go back with me. Our congenial correspondence, your inspiring letters, our beautiful friendship of four years' duration, made me feel that we were made for each other. Just as if it were written in the book—and now you say nothing but 'No, no, no'

"Is it the distance that frightens you, girl?"

"No, decidedly not," promptly answered Fay 'Love knows no distance—with the right man I would go to the equator."

"Is It the Distance That Frightens You?"

"Well, why under the sun am I not the right man?"

"I simply don't understand it myself," answered the girl. 'But I can't work up any sentiment regarding you, try as I will"

"In this city you have neither kith nor kin," went on John. "There isn't a soul here who needs you. You are existing in a two by-four hall bedroom, teaching each day a lot of unappreciative kids Oh, Fay, come with me! I could give you so much love and life I want you By George! how I want you"

"Good night, John Bruce. I can't stand any more tonight You make me unhappy—miserable I can never do as you wish, it's absolutely impossible Don't try to persuade me In a weak, lonesome moment I might accept—then maybe you and I would regret it for always.

"I have never loved you—I don't love you now, and I never will love you. That's all."

"Good night, good night, little girl; good night and good bye. I am a brute and a beast to worry you. A week from today a steamer leaves for Panama with me on board I won't see you again. It hurts too much Write often I need your letters."

"Good bye—and God bless you, Johnny," said Fay as he wrung her hand.

Six weeks later Fay received a cablegram from Panama stating "John Bruce's leg amputated; dangerously ill; wished you to be notified. Signed, Chas Garthler"

Fay quickly answered: "Inform John Bruce I can't stay away, because—because I love—him"

An Englishman's Retort.

He had just arrived from old England and his friend, a prominent clubman, was showing him the city. In our suburbs they noticed a neatly fixed-up candy store, which greatly surprised the stranger, and he inquired how that could be made to pay. The clubman remarked in answer:

"Why, I don't believe he can make his salt there"

The Englishman seemed bewildered, and adjusting his monocle, said:

"How strange! Do you expect a man in this country to make salt in a sweet shop?"

Haw! Haw!

Reversed.

Tourist (to Indian standing beside a pile of arrow heads, etc.)—Heap scrap?

Indian—Nope! Scrap heap. I'm just waiting to sell the lot to the first eastern junk curio dealer that comes along this way.—Puck.

BODY IS FOUND AT LAST

The body of Harry B. Carson, aged 18, of South Connellsville, drowned in March by falling off a bridge during a flood, was recovered yesterday from the Yough river at Fritz Henry, 21 miles below the point of the accident. The body was discovered a week ago by an Italian who though it a piece of burlap and did not investigate.

RINGLING BROS. BIG SHOW AT CHARLEROI

Ringling Brothers' Circus and newly added $500,000 spectacle of "Joan of Arc," will exhibit in Charleroi on May 18. The spectacle in itself is an attraction that should bring thousands of visitors from the surrounding country. It is beyond question the greatest production of its kind ever seen in America.

The world's most skillful scenic artists, costumers, property-makers, chorus directors and stage managers were engaged to mount the production. A stage bigger than a hundred ordinary theatres was built and made portable so that it can be conveyed from town to town and erected each morning in the main tent. Thus the circus proprietors have made it possible for those who live in contributary towns as well as in the large cities to see this magnificent wordless play with its cast of 1,200 characters, a ballet of 200 dancing girls, a grand opera chorus of 400 voices, 660 horses and a train load of special scenery, costumes, prop rties and mechanical devices for producing such stage effects as thunder, lightning, storms, fires, and the sound of battle.

On the triumphant incidents, the victorious engagements, the final defeat of the English armies, and the coronation of Charles VII, all achieved by the frail Maid of Orleans, has been founded the inspiring spectacle which gives Ringling Brothers' circus a new significance and makes an attraction such as the world, searching for amusement, has never before found.

The regular circus program is more than attractive. Its company of 375 foreign artists, its double menagerie and its new street parade will prove a great surprise to those who attend from this city. The event is one that should not be missed.

News Notes of Society

A birthday surprise was given last night by the membership of the Christian Circle and Brotherhood classes of the Christian church in honor of Mrs. Alma Grimsley at her home in the old National bank building corner of Donner and Eighth street, there being a large number present and the evening was most pleasantly passed in game and sociability supplemented by a charming luncheon which had been previouly arranged by the young ladies. The young folks were assisted in their entertaining by their teachers, Mrs. James Patton and J. E. Newcomer and everything was done to assure all a good time. The honor guest is twenty three years old and prior to her marriage was a member and regular attendant of Mrs Patton's clrgs and while she was very much taken by surprise she was most appreciative of the honor bestowed upon her and did all within her power to add pleasure and enjoyment during the evening. To the honor guest the visitors presented large boquets of roses and lilacs aside from presenting her a very pretty china berry set. Among the out-of-town guests were, Miss H. Eleanor Sholes of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Gossard and Mrs. Grimsley's father and Mr. Grimsley's mother of Duquesne. Also the Misses Helena and Christena Braunce of Charleroi.

A delightful surprise party which was one of the season's most enjoyable social event was tendered Miss Virginia Smith last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Simonds on Knox avenue, by the members of the Hummers club. The guests assembled at the home of one of the members of the club and then went to the Simond's home where Miss Smith was taken completely by surprise. The evening was pleasantly passed in games and other amusements after which a dainty repast of light refreshments was served. There were about 15 members present and their guests.

Instead of external application, the man took the oil inwardly and died soon afterward in great agony.

DONORA ALSO SEEKS A WAY TO THE RIVER

Donora wants a wharf so that it can realize the benefit which comes from an improved river and of water transportation. It has petitioned the American Steel and Wire Company for an outlet to the river at some point convenient for shippers. The time was only a few years ago when the steel company had to go to the people of Donora to close the only avenue to the river open to the citizens but now the shoe is on the other foot and Donora might just as well be in the wilds of Africa so far as benefits from the river are concerned.

This paper has frequently called attention to the value of riparian rights and particularly points available for wharfage. It is an asset that is sadly under-estimated and is never appreciated at its true value until such times as it is given or bartered away. While the river business may be at a low ebb at the present time the day will come which will see a rejuvenation of this means of transportation and those towns that have conserved their water front privileges will be the gainers by a large margin.

Just as was Monessen's experience. Now we're tunneling under the railroad and getting a way to river and Donora might just as well first as last go to work and tunnel under the mill to the river.

A CHILDISH FIGHT THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN FATAL

A childish fight yesterday afternoon near Oneida street on Schoonmaker avenue came near ending disastrously for one of the little participants. Constance Zezinga, aged 6 and Lena Ravei aged 8 after playing with each other for about an hour during the afternoon, suddenly became angry and started to hurl rocks and pieces of wood at each other.

The scrap waxed warmer and warmer until finally Lena ran up on the steps of her home at 93 Schoonmaker, followed by the Zezinga girl. Suddenly Lena turned around and picking up a large sharp pointed rock, the size of a brick, threw it at her pursuer, the missile striking the child on the head and inflicting a ghastly wound. The girl after being struck toppled down the few step she had gone up and lay huddled in a heap until she was carried to her home by her mother. Medical aid was summoned immediately and the cut was closed with several stitches.

Mr. Zeringa brought a charge of wilful malice against Mrs. Ravei, the mother of his daughter's assailant. The case was heard before Burgess Reamer and he ordered Mrs. Ravei to pay the costs of the case and the doctors fee's in attending the patient.

LOCAL STORE IS FORCED TO PUT ON MORE HELP

Monessen's new co operative store is already doing a fine business; everybody seems to be taking a lively interest in this new enterprise and business is picking up right along The clerks find plenty to keep them busy, and in fact they seemed to be so overly rushed that the gentlemanly solicitor, Ernest M. Dregalla, offered the suggestion that additional help be procured at once in order that their patrons might have more prompt attention, and that they hire the first competent clerk that came into the store. So, on Friday last, at 3:30 a. m., as the clerks were sweeping out to get ready for Saturday's rush, in walked a young man accompanied by a gentleman named Stork, applied for a position and was immediately engaged. He gave his name as Dragella—a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Dragella; he weighed just nine pounds and is learning his new business quite rapidly. In fact Mr. Dragella, Sr., is quite proud of his new help. He says things are moving along nicely now at the store. Everybody gets waited on carefully and promptly and he has a smile for everyone he meets.
